

Abraxas Web Design - Paying for your website

As with the small contract I draw up between myself and clients I like to think integrity and common respect for each other provides the best grounding when discussing and deciding on the price of a web site.

With that in mind the information given below remains flexible and open to discussion, just as long as all parties agree.

Payments

- Unless otherwise agreed in writing a deposit of £100 or 50% of the invoice value, whichever is the greater before I start work. Payment for hosting and any domain names are paid up front. The remainder is due upon completion of your website.
- I accept payment by cheque or through PayPal (you do not need an account to use the system)
- Maintenance of your site for the first six months is free, this includes:
 - Maintaining your domain name on your behalf
 - Maintaining your hosting on reliable servers
 - Making minor updates to your website as you request them. Minor updates cover most changes to the content of your website such as changing phone numbers, prices or photos.
- I will notify you when your hosting renewal or your domain name renewal is due.

What's The Catch?

- There isn't one! You can transfer your domain name, you can transfer your hosting, you can move or delete your site without any further charge from me.
